Las Lomitas Board Meets to View Kindergarten Plans

Las Lomitas school district trustees have scheduled a special meeting for tonight at 8 p. m. at the school, at which time they will review plans for a kindergarten unit at the school.

Plans for the proposed building will be submitted by district Architect Peter Kump. If the plans are approved by the board, they will be submitted to state authorities for further approval. The unit is to be built with California state emergency school funds.

The special session was set at the board's regular monthly meeting held last week, at which district Superintendent Lawrence J. Fuller was presented with a new, four year contract and a pay raise from $3250 to $750 per annum.

Other action at last week's session included adoption of an administrative salary schedule for school district principals; acceptance of a bid for a new school bus, which is to be delivered this week and discussion of the possibility of asking a hike in the permissive tax rate which the district may levy.

The proposed boost in the maximum tax rate which the district may charge is to be subject of a special election April 4. The trustees decided to ask that the maximum be raised to $1.50 per $100 assessed valuation.

Board members also heard a report of the "time schedule" for building of the proposed Ladera school. Architect Kump said that the new school should be ready for occupancy about May 1 of next year.

QUITS POST

The Menlo Park city council Tuesday night accepted with regret the resignation of Harry C. Miner from the city planning commission.

Red Cross Drive Has Third of Quota

As of the middle of this week, Red Cross campaign workers in Menlo Park had turned in about one third of the city's quota of $10,350, and city drive chairman John Lehman estimated, on the basis of canvassing of his district captains, that another 20 per cent had been collected but not yet turned in.

Total actually received at headquarters was $3,615, Lehman said.

Meanwhile, Atherton reported collections of $4604.25 to date; Woodside, $2131, and Redwood City $6153.01. No returns had yet been reported from East Palo Alto, although the drive was declared to be proceeding on schedule in that area.

Lehman joined general fund drive Chairman Jack Jorgenson in urging all workers to turn in collections as fast as possible and to try to clean up the drive before next week.

Business Manager Takes School Post

Kendall Power, past president of the Palo Alto chamber of commerce and a former Palo Alto business man, took over the post of business manager for the Menlo Park elementary school district last Friday, having been hired for the position by district trustees Thursday night.

He was hired as an aide to school Superintendent Mel Homfeld, to allow the Superintendent more time for educational phases of his work. Homfeld was this week attending a school administrators' conference in southern California.

Bower, who resides in Palo Alto, has been in business in this area since 1932, most recently with the firm of Bower and Reed. He was hired by the school district at a salary of $5400.

Bower's job is to include the overseeing of the school agency's accounting, expenditures, purchasing and other business matters. He is expected to "sit in" on school district board meetings.

National Guard General Visits Here, Disusses Need for Menlo Park Armory

Major General C. D. O'Sullivan, commander of the 40th California national guard division, Monday afternoon called for more active community support of Menlo Park's national guard unit as a preliminary to the construction of an armory here.

In a conference held at the city hall, the general pointed out that there are enough state and federal monies available to "go a long way toward completing the national guard's armory-building program," but, he said, he did not know how high on the existing "priority list" this city was.

The general also viewed the portion of the civic center reserved as a possible armory site, and explained the military organization's policy of allowing public use of such buildings.

Present at the meeting were members of the Menlo Park chamber of commerce board of directors, representatives of the city council, City Planning Consultant H. S. Wise and City Manager C. L. Longson.

"Usually," the General said, "lack of support of a national guard unit is the result of lack of knowledge of the national guard's functions."

He also pointed out that joining the national guard program provides an opportunity for young men to fulfill their military obligations without being called up under selective service.

Other phases of community support, he said, could be undertaken by employers.

New Scout Troop To Be Formed

First meeting for a new Boy Scout troop for Menlo Park, to be named Troop 104 and to be sponsored by the city's Lions club, will be held tonight at Central school beginning at 7:30 p. m.

John A. Sullivan, youth activities chairman for the sponsoring organization, said that the new troop will be designed primarily for "graduates" of Cub Scouting who are over 11 years of age.

Planners Clash at Council Meeting Over Resubdivision Plan

Two members of the city's planning commission clashed publicly Tuesday night before the Menlo Park city council over the granting of a proposed resubdivision, with the result that councilmen scheduled an unusual adjourned regular session for next week to discuss the matter further.

The resubdivision map of portions of lots 3 and 4, Block C, Paraiso park, came before the council as a routine matter bearing approval of the planning commission.

At that point, Planning Commissioner Paul H. Bryant rose from the audience to protest the plan.

The proposal, which envisions the division of a large interior lot, reached through a 35-foot easement, into two lots, would, he said, create a congested situation out of keeping with the area surrounding it.

Bryant resides at 1320 University drive, the rear of his property being adjacent to the lot under consideration.

DID NOT VOTE 'NO'

Councilman George S. Ford asked Bryant if he had been the only member of the commission voting against the proposal. To this Bryant replied that he had not voted "no" but had proposed that the commission view the site before passing on the plan. Not having received any support, he said, he dropped his suggestion.

It was then brought out that the only other members acting on the proposal had been John D. McCracken and Paul Speegle.

Three other members had been absent from the meeting and Chairman Charles Andrews had ruled himself out in the matter since his real estate office was interested in the proposal.

Andrews, also present in the audience Tuesday night, rose to point out in reply to Bryant that the plan

Sewer Bond Election Set April 22

Menlo Park sanitary district trustees Monday night set April 22 as date for a special election on whether the district "shall incur a bonded indebtedness of $303,000 . . ." to finance construction of necessary outfalls along Middle avenue in Menlo Park and Atherton avenue in the latter city.

Passing the resolution, members of the board characterized the outfalls as the final major projects in the district in the forseeable future.

The Atherton main is to extend from Atherton avenue and O'Dell place to the Marsh road-Middlefield road intersection.

The present main serving that section was laid more than 40 years ago, and can no longer carry the flow of sewage which originates in the western part of Atherton, district officers said.

During heavy rains earlier this winter, the present mains overflowed in the Atherton avenue-O'Dell place area.

The outfall contemplated for the Menlo Park section would extend from the vicinity of Middle avenue and El Camino Real westward to Olive street, from which point lateral mains would be extended west along Oak avenue and north along Olive street.

The present main which extends along Middle avenue has also become inadequate due to the growing population in the western part of the district, according to board members.

CONNECT

Both proposed outfalls, if and when completed, will connect to larger, existing mains tied to the district's sewage treatment plant.

The board's resolution calling for the bond issue election set the Menlo Park fire district headquarters, 1077 Merrill street, Menlo Park, as the sole polling place for the balloting. Polls will be open from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m. on the election date.

Amount of the bond issue was set after trustees viewed estimates of costs of the lines. The Atherton unit, to be composed of 18-inch and 16-inch pipe, is expected to cost $77,076 and the Menlo Park unit, to include 24-inch and 15-inch mains, is expected to cost about $175,150.

Contingency fees and estimated engineering costs make up the remainder of the total asked in the bond issue.

New Rabbi Named For Beth Jacob

Dr. Harris Hirschberg has been elected to fill the pulpit of Temple Beth Jacob of Menlo Park, Dennis L. Woodman, president of the congregation, announced last week. The Rabbi-elect will arrive about June 1 to take up his new post.

Dr. Hirschberg was granted his degree of Doctor of Philosophy at the University of Berlin in 1932, and was ordained there in 1933. He has been a resident of the United States since 1939.

Besides his pastoral duties, Dr. Hirschberg has become known as a lecturer and teacher, having served as such at Hood college, Maryland, and as an instructor in history and civics at the Augusta military academy in Virginia.

He has also been trained in the field of teaching the traditional liturgy of the Synagogue.

General Here . . .

Menlo Park's national guard unit, Battery D of the 149th AA artillery battalion, is the battalion's smallest company-size unit. Its headquarters are at Burgess park gym.

In a question and answer period which made up part of the conference program, the general explained how the national guard would aid area civilian-manned teams in caring for evacuees, meeting manpower problems where they arise, or providing communications and other special services.

He emphasized that the guard may also be called out for other emergencies, such as floods or forest fires.

The general explained, in answer to a question from Wise, that although the national guard cannot design its buildings as parts of city-owned buildings, "architectural tie-ins" can be constructed to allow maximum use.

ADJACENT

The proposed Menlo Park national guard armory would be adjacent to the proposed Menlo Park civic center building.

Attending the meeting from the Menlo Park chamber of commerce were board of directors members Michael L. Belangie, Fred Walker and Thomas F. Cuff; from the city council, Belangie and Dr. Robert M. Marcussen and from the national guard, Warrant Officer (jg) Jay Sevy, administrative assistant for Battery D; Battalion adjutant Captain George Keltner and General O'Sullivan.

The general had lunch at the Palo Alto Elks club and was taken on a tour of the Hiller Helicopter plant in East Palo Alto during the afternoon. During the evening he inspected Menlo Park national guard unit and its facilities.

met legal requirements of the city in every respect and that similar subdivisions have been approved in the area.

ESTHETIC VALUES

The resident of a house across Crane street from the lots in question declared he believed the resubdivision would depreciate esthetic as well as monetary values of other lots in the neighborhood.

Frank Follansbee, 1325 Crane street, stated that they (residents of the area) would like to keep the spacious nature of their land, but that if this resubdivision were to be approved, similar permission should be granted all other property owners in the district.

Councilmen Ford and Arthur Cobbledick suggested the matter be continued to allow inspection of the premises before coming to a vote.

Councilman Michael L. Belangie, however, declared that he could see no reason to delay in view of the fact that he plan met all legal requirements, had been approved by the commission and was in line with similar actions previously allowed nearby.

NEED FOR ACTION

Ford asked Andrews if there was any objection to delaying the matter two weeks to allow the council to vote more intelligently after personal inspection.

Upon Andrews' reply that there was reason for fast action because a real estate deal was awaiting action, Ford suggested as a compromise that the council continue the matter for only one week.

The council, he suggested, could take up the matter at regular open discussion on March 18, instead of holding only the usual informal meeting scheduled for that date.

This suggestion was approved by the council.

Judges Ryan, Thorpe In Run-off for South County Post

A contest for one of two posts in the southern San Mateo county judicial district has developed, with announcement by Judges E. J. Ryan and W. H. Thorpe that they will run for one department office.

Judge E. I. McAuliffe will run unopposed for a second department office. The two posts will be activated following the forthcoming June 3 election and will replace 13 police courts and five justice courts now having separate jurisdictions in the area south of Belmont and extending to the coastside.

The three judges gave notice of their intention to file for the election prior to Feb. 29. Up to that time, other candidates could have entered the race for either department office.

The "notice of intention" was a required preliminary step; the three candidates need not formally file until a March 28 deadline.

Judge McAuliffe is Justice of the Peace for the south county area, having been elected to that post five times, without opposition, since 1927. He is also a former Redwood City police judge.

RESIDENT

Judge Ryan, who is a resident of Menlo Park, is Menlo Park police judge and county librarian. He is also city judge for the city of Belmont.

Judge Thorpe is Redwood City Police Judge, and is a past president of the San Mateo county bar association. He has had more than 25 years experience in law enforcement and legal work.

Both Judge Ryan and Judge Thorpe are natives of San Mateo county; Judge McAuliffe was born in San Francisco but was moved, with other members of his parents' family, to Redwood City at the age of two.

All three candidates studied law at Sequoia adult evening school.

Letters addressed to parents of all boys in the appropriate age group who are attending Hillview and Fremont schools have been sent out by the sponsoring organization, inviting the parents to tonight's meeting.

Burgess Calls Meeting Of All Taxing Groups

In view of the proposed 50 per cent increase in the basis of assessed valuations in the county, Mayor Charles P. Burgess of Menlo Park this week called for a meeting of all independent taxing bodies overlapping the Menlo Park and Atherton areas.

The meeting is to be held March 28 in the Menlo Park council chambers.

Swimming School Rezoning Hearing Set

Hearing was set for 8 p. m. April 1 by the city council for consideration of the proposed rezoning of the rear portion of a lot owned by John Demeter adjoining Willow school and facing Willow road to allow its use for a swimming school.

The proposal was approved by the planning commission in its meeting last week.

Funds Juggled To Speed Alley

More than $19,400 was transferred from Menlo Park's general fund Tuesday night to pay for land acquisition necessary to begin work immediately on the alley to be built parallel to the south side of Santa Cruz avenue between Crane street and University drive.

Further, $7200 was ordered deposited with the court in connection with a condemnation suit filed on one parcel of property in order to allow the city to begin work immediately.

The alley, described by City Engineer Edwin H. Smith as the most urgent part of the overall business district alleys and parking plaza project, is expected to relieve much of the double parking of delivery trucks on the business thoroughfare.

The sum taken out of the general fund to speed the work will be returned to the fund as soon as money from the assessment bonds is received, which should be in two or three weeks' according to City Attorney James T. O'Keefe Jr.

T. J. CALLAN SEEKS POST AS SUPERVISOR

Thomas J. Callan, pioneer San Mateo County businessman, today announced he will be a candidate for the San Mateo County board of supervisors from the First District. He filed his nomination papers March 5.

A resident of Colma, Callan has been a leader in county affairs for the past 30 years. He is presently chairman of the San Mateo County Harbor Commission and trustee of the Jefferson Union High School District.

Pledging to carry on a people's campaign, Callan said: "I am seeking a seat on the board of supervisors for only one reason . . . to build the county for present and future generations."

He said he will seek election on the following constructive, progressive program:

RAPID TRANSPORTATION: The greatest bottleneck to the development of the county is the lack of adequate highways. This results in daily traffic jams and, what is more important, hinders development of industry, residential districts and recreational facilities.

Callan proposes to help solve the problem by a network of highways running generally east and west throughout the county. Such a system of roads would give residents quick access to the already existing north-south highways.

The cross roads would allow development of the thousands of acres between Bayshore Freeway, El Camino Real, Skyline Boulevard and the Coastside Highway. They would, also, result in helping to solve the present problem of jammed north-south routes and prove of great assistance to civilian and military defense and preparedness if a state of extreme emergency arose due to a war or a natural disaster.

As for the present problem of the flooded coast highway, Callan advocates immediate action to relocate the road. He is now studying the various plans, and will present what he believes is the best solution later in his campaign.

RECREATION AND PARKS: Development and maintenance of recreation facilities is a pressing problem. Callan offers a two-fold plan for its solution.

The county may expedite the parks and recreation program by the simple means of putting county prisoners to work. Callan says there are from 150 to 200 men now idle who might be employed in constructive labor during their time in prison.

He explained a detail of prisoners could quickly clean and maintain the county beaches—a section of the county which, being improved and properly maintained could prove of great value to the recreational needs of the residents of the County.

These same prisoners could be employed to build much-needed shelters along the beaches and in the parks, and generally would be a source of useful labor. They would receive nominal wages to assist them in rehabilitation upon release from jail. Callan points out this would be a direct method of saving the taxpayer thousands of dollars and at the same time build the county recreation and park system.

In conjunction with this program, he advocates a regular prison farm where prisoners may raise their own food. This would eliminate a great part of the county jail bill for food.

Also he favors immediate action to purchase and develop the acreage for the Butano State Park.

TAXES: Callan, as a successful businessman, says he is in a position to judge how high or low the tax rate should go to allow funds for the development of the county. He is especially interested in keeping the tax rate low now that the assessed valuation of most county property has been upped by approximately 50 per cent. Callan said he will outline a complete program for the county budget and tax rate later in his campaign.

EFFICIENT GOVERNMENT: With an eye to eliminating waste in favor of efficiency, Callan believes the board of supervisors should work in closer harmony with other county and city officials. This, he says, will result in a saving to the taxpayer and help formulate an integrated plan for the development of the County as a whole.

In step with this measure, Callan favors having the supervisors meet at least once a week instead of following their present bi-monthly schedule. This will allow more economical, efficient county government, Callan says.

Similar cooperation between the county board of supervisors and the San Francisco Supervisors may mean lower water rates for all County residents, Callan noted most of the county is dependent upon San Francisco for water, and he believes harmony might result in lower rates.

Another major development of such harmony would be the extension of San Francisco transportation system into the northern sections of the county, now hard hit for proper transportation facilities.

COURT HOUSE: Because of the pressing need for more office space, immediate steps must be taken to improve the county courthouse situation. If said from an engineering and architectural standpoint. Callan believes that the late Colonel Edmond's plan of removal of the old domed structure and the addition of a multi-story building in its place would solve the problem. He believes the project could be put into effect in the near future and it could eliminate the necessity of constructing another costly building with the duplicate facilities in the unforeseeable future. Further, he says that this county office would be housed under one roof thereby resulting in greater convenience, economy and efficiency in county business.

BAYSHORE FREEWAY: Completion of Bayshore Freeway and an increase in the personnel of the California Highway Patrol for policing of the State Highways in the County are immediate needs for the protection of life and property. Callan states that he will work and cooperate with State and County officials in accomplishing both of these objectives.

In conclusion, Callan said his general program is aimed at only one thing . . . development of San Mateo County. He said other points in his improvement program will be soon forth coming.

In the Board of Supervisors election voting is countywide.

Sequoia Trustees Consider Special Election at Session

Sequoia high school district trustees were to hold a hearing last night on whether or not a measure calling for a hike of 25 cents of the district's permissive tax rate maximum should be placed on the May 16 school election ballot.

The present maximum tax rate which the district may charge is $1. If the measure is placed on the ballot and subsequently passed by the district's voters, the maximum will be raised to $1.25.

The special public hearing on the matter was called at last week's meeting of the board, after district Superintendent Dr. Clyde Ogden submitted a 10-page preliminary report on the district's forthcoming 1952-53 budget.

Ogden pointed out that the high school district expects an increase of about 714 new students during the coming fiscal year, calling for the hiring of about 25 additional teachers by the district. He added that costs are continuing to rise.

The superintendent also recommended that the district proceed with the acquisition of property for, and construction of, a fourth high school within the district without delay. Trustees viewed sets of preliminary plans for such a plant at the meeting.

M-A Names Student Award Candidates

Names of outstanding senior students of Menlo-Atherton high school who have been selected by their principal and faculty for Bank of America achievement awards, have been announced by S. S. Mayo, principal.

Chosen to receive achievement cups for excellence in general fields of study are Peter Caballero, fine arts; Marilynn Colebourn, liberal arts; William Pitsker, science and mathematics.

Students who will receive certificates for superiority in specific fields of study include William Pitsker, mathematics; Kenneth Mort, laboratory science; Steve Graham, music; Peter Caballero, art; Marilynn Ruth Colebourne, English; Robert Colley, social science; Elizabeth Cincera, business; Darlene Stadler, home economics.

Cup winners named above may be called upon to reppresent their school in a zone selection event to be held May 2 in Redwood City, at which time they will be judged by a committee composed of civic leaders and prominent citizens in this area.

Should a Menlo-Atherton student be selected by the committee to represent this region, he or she will then be eligible to receive a cash award.

The cash awards, ranging from $50 to $1000, will be made at two final judging events scheduled May 21 in San Francisco.

Atherton Planners Discuss Setbacks

Set-back lines for new homes built facing Middlefield road were discussed at Tuesday night's meeting of the Atherton planning commission. Harold F. Wise, consultant planner of Menlo Park, represented the city in the talk of eventually widening Middlefield road.

Plans are now being evolved to govern the set-back of homes being built along the road, so that they will not interfere with the future broadening.

Among the other business handled by the commission was a request granted on a one-yard variance and an approval of a request for subdividing a lot.

Among Other Things:

Sanitary District Calls for Tax Rate Of 30 Cents—or Less, if Possible

Trustees of the Menlo Park sanitary district Monday night set their tentative 1952-53 operating budget at $57,000 to be financed by a tax rate of 30 cents per $100 assessed valuation, the latter figure to be adjusted downward if assessed valuations are raised.

Pointing out that the board's policy is to keep district taxes at a minimum, trustees explained that the amount of the tentative operating budget is sufficient for the district's anticipated needs.

The trustees based their tentative tax rate on a $19,000,000 total assessed valuation for the district. If the total proves to be higher, or is revised upward, the district's tax rate will be lowered to maintain the same total income for the district.

The figures were arrived at in answer to a routine request from the county board of supervisors for information on the forthcoming budget.

"It is the policy of the district," Trustee William Tyler observed, "to provide adequate service and at the same time to keep the tax rate as low as possible."

OTHER ACTIONS

In other actions Monday night the sanitary district dustees:

1. Tabled a request from Barrett and Hilp, University village developers, for a "hookup" to the district's outfalls. The trustees explained that the subdivision's interceptor mains leak more than the amount allowed by the district. About 12 families have already moved into the subdivision.

2. Directed a letter to W. A. Gregory, 299 Leland avenue, stating that the district had no easement on property owned by him on what was formerly College avenue. Gregory said, in a letter to the board, that he intends to build a spare room on that property. The section of College avenue has been abandoned as a street.

3. Granted a 30-day extension to Contractor Peter Sorenson, builder of the district's sewage plant. Sorenson asked the extension in view of heavy rains which have slowed construction. Trustees said, however, that the plant may yet be finished on or nearly on schedule, during May.

4. Informally agreed to accept an easement which would drain part of the Ladera tract and the new Ladera school site, through Stanford property at Webb ranch. The easement must, however, follow streets or be situated in public parks, if and when the university subdivides the ranch.

6 MP Residents Graduated by SJS

Six Menlo Park students were among 181 San Jose state college seniors who were graduated yesterday at the end of the college's winter quarter.

One of them, Paul W. Berry, who received his Bachelor of Arts degree in education, graduated with distinction.

Others to be graduated and the degrees they received included Dolores B. Anderson, A. B. in home economics; Margaret M. Molobergen, A. B. in education; Elaine E. Straver, A. B. in education; Gordon S. Turner, A. B. in education and Leonard N. Wallach, A. B. in education.

The graduation exercises were to take the form of a senior class banquet at which Dr. T. W. MacQuarrie, president of the college, was to present the degrees.

Five billion conversations! By day and night, in cities and towns, across valleys and over mountains, the West's telephone lines are busy carrying the calls that in a year total more than twice the population of the earth! Some calls are routine, others may save a life, but each call is vital to capable telephone people everywhere as they work at the wide variety of telephone jobs needed to serve you and the nation well.

This telephone team, for instance, is pinpointing the location of a buried cable which needs repairs. The cable will be fixed quickly . . . and calls will flow again. Meanwhile, your long distance calls are re-routed to get them through with little or no delay. This is just part of the complex job of maintaining and expanding the West's vast telephone system—a job which now requires the skills of some 27,000 well-trained telephone men and 46,000 alert telephone women here in the West. 'Round the clock, they're on the job to keep America's telephone system the finest in the world . . . able to do its full share of the important task of keeping America strong.

WATCH TAX RATES!

It is now proposed to raise the basis of assessed valuations in San Mateo county by about 50 per cent.

Right now, while budgets are beginning to be drawn for the next fiscal year, is the time for all resident of the county, and particularly of the Menlo Park and Atherton area, to start keeping a close watch on tax rates of the many tax-levying bodies that affect us.

We say Menlo Park and Atherton citizens should pay particularly close attention to tax rates because this area is unusual in its number of overlapping, autonomous tax-supported agencies.

It has become so common for municipalities to control such matters as fire protection, schools, sewage disposal and similar public services that most new residents—and a surprisingly large number of old-timers, too — are amazed when they learn that, in this area, these services are taken care of by separate, self-governing organizations, each of which estimates its own operating costs for the ensuing year and sets its own tax rate accordingly.

The new basis for assessed valuations is in line with the purpose of the State Board of Equalization to keep assessments uniform throughout the state. San Mateo county has long been comparatively low in its assessments.

The proposed boost in valuations, to bring us into line with other areas, need not mean more money out of the pockets of our residents. But it can mean that unless citizens are aware of the danger and let officers of the taxing bodies know they are on the alert.

If your home was assessed at $2000 under the old basis, and a tax rate of 50 cents per $100 for a certain agency thus took from your pocket for that agency a total of $10, then under the new higher valuations that agency should need a tax rate of less than 34 cents per $100 to raise its $10 from you, with the value of your property now set at about $3000.

Mayor Charles P. Burgess this week called for a joint meeting of all taxing bodies that overlap the civic boundaries of Menlo Park and Atherton to discuss mutual action to hold tax rates down in view of the new valuation basis.

The Menlo Park Sanitary district has announced that its tentative tax rate of 30 cents will be lowered if valuations are revised upward.

These are heartening moves. They prove that our public officials are aware of their responsibility to save the taxpayer's hide from more unkind cuts than necessary.

But it behooves the taxpayer himself to keep an eye on the situation to save his own skin.

AN ARMORY

The visit here of Major-General C. D. O'Sullivan, commander of the 49th California National Guard division, this week provided Menlo Park with more than an opportunity to entertain some "top brass."

The general, in discussing the possibility of construction of a National Guard armory here, gave the city a thought that might ease the problem of building the proposed community center.

If an armory were put up on land the city already has set aside for such a purpose, adjacent to the site of the projected community center, the large meeting hall need would be met and plans for the city's own building could be reduced to include only smaller meeting rooms and kitchen facilities.

The state and federal funds are available for such an armory, but it would be foolish to expect such a structure to be considered for the smallest guard unit in the 149th AA artillery batallion. If Menlo Park's Company D had twice its present enrollment of 39, such action might be reasonable.

But after all, our National Guard unit does more than give us a chance at having a free meeting hall. The Guard provides us with an ever-ready team to help us in any emergency that may arise.

It's an organization worthy of our respect and support.

Perhaps, if Menlo Park paid more attention to the fine—if small—unit that it now has, if more young men would take advantage of the opportunities offered by the guard, if our Company D were built up to full strength, we might find ourselves with not only the crack outfit in the 49th division, but with an armory the city could be proud of as well.

Your City's Business:

Park, Playground Planning Needed For the Future

By C. L. LONGSON
(Menlo Park City Manager)

The rapid growth of population of the state as a whole and of the Menlo Park area in particular has been and will be reflected in many important ways.

Not the least important of these is in the extent to which we must plan for the future; and one of the more important fields in which we must make these plans is that of recreation.

It is predicted that the population of California will be 20,000,000 by 1962, the present population of 11,000,000 increased by nine additional million.

What this means to localities as applied to their needs for parks, playgrounds and other recreational facilities was discussed recently at the annual conference of the California society, American Institute of Park executives, in Fresno.

If the additional 9,000,000 people were distributed uniformly throughout the state, it would be relatively simple to provide the recreational facilities necessary to accommodate them.

However, this is not the case.

In some areas the increase will not be more than two per cent; in others, well over 100 per cent.

Looking back in an effort to arrive at a figure on which to base predictions for the future, it would be safe to anticipate a population increase of at least 90 per cent for the suburban Peninsula.

On this basis, the population of Menlo Park and environs will increase from 20,000 to 38,000. This is a conservative estimate.

It has been determined that at least a five-acre plot is the minimum size of a neighborhood-type park, required for a population of 4500. Such neighborhood parks are not to be confused with the larger "district area" type parks, such as we now have at Burgess park and Nealon park.

The 5 acre figure was reached as the result of studies made by specialists in the field of providing park and recreation areas who were in attendance at the conference. The figures are not a guess or the results of wishful thinking on the part of a few enthusiasts.

Using simple arithmetic and applying the results to Menlo Park, it is obvious that our needs are presently 22 acres (for our population of about 22,000), or roughly four areas of 5 acres each.

By 1960 our needs will be approximately 8 areas of 5 acres each, or 40 acres.

These areas will become adjusted to the facilities presently available —Burgess park and Nealon park.

The locations of new parks, too, will have to be decided. in the light of their proximity to existing parks and population densities.

Populations vary with land use. Obviously there are more people in an apartment house zone than in a residential zone restricted to one single - family dwelling on 10,000 square feet of land.

Land use also determines the facilities to be installed in a park or play area.

For example, the city's land use survey recently completed in our city shows that in one area 45 per cent of the population is under 14 years of age. In another area, only 15 per cent of the population is under 14 years of age.

This figure will change with the passage of time so consideration is given to the possibility of moving some playground apparatus and facilities from areas to areas as the ratios change.

This writer was the only city manager in attendance at the Fresno conference; most of the delegates being more directly concerned with recreation.

But the figures cited above should indicate the extent to which parks and playgrounds will be needed, the importance of beginning to plan for them and reserve space for them, and the very real interest of the public as a whole.

Barden-Mac Gowan Rites Performed Last Sunday

Now honeymooning in La Jolla are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. MacGowan, who were married last Sunday in a 3 p. m. ceremony at Menlo Park Presbyterian church.

The new Mrs. McGowan was formerly Virginia Barden, daughter of Mr. and Mrss. V. C. Barden, 1539 Laurel place.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a ballerina-length wedding dress of French imported lace fashioned over three layers of net skirting and an underpetticoat of white satin. She carried a cascade of white carnations surrounding an orchid centerpiece.

Sole attendant for the bride was her sister, Carolyn, who was gowned in bouffant lavendar net over satin. The maid-of-honor's bouquet was a mass of pale pink carnations.

Norman MacGowan, the bridegroom's brother, was best man, while James Barden, David Craft, Jack Mendarich and Stan Drew ushered.

Baskets of flowers decorated the altar. Doris Wilson, soloist, sang "Through the Years" and "Oh Promise Me."

Following the wedding, guests were invited to a reception at the Marie Antoinette. There, Virginia donned her going-away suit of navy and gray flannel set off by navy and white accessories.

The bride, who attended San Diego State college, was active in the Menlo Park Players' guild. She has a sister, Carolyn, and a brother, James.

A Palo Alto high school graduate, the bridegroom is employed by Hiller Helicopters, and in addition does specialty work for the Palo Alto police department. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. R. H. MacGowan of Palo Alto. Tom also has two sisters and two brothers, Nancy, Marge, Norman, and John.

The young couple as yet have made no plans for their future home.

Children's Theater To Portray Aladdin

The play will be shown in Menlo Park April 26 at Central school auditorium. Children from this area will be notified of ticket sales two weeks in advance of the performance, or if tickets are desired before that time. Mrs. Frederick Weir, DA 2-6702, may be contacted.

"The Magic Lamp," presented by Robert Braun and his Peninsula Little theater group, relates the story of Aladdin. Among the many characters in the play are Scheherezade, Princess Badroulbadour, the Magician and a human sized chicken.

A series of incidents have alsa ben incorporatd, including a Punch and Judy tale, a story involving a princess with a bewitched heart of biscuit china and an amusing biography of a giant named Snikerty Nick, who learns to love children.

Peninsula branch of the Children's Theater association was formed last November, and will attempt to follow in the footsteps of the San Francisco, Marin county and East Bay organizations which have presented living theater at a minimum cost to youngsters in their locale.

The five officers presenting gifts were garbed in traditional Irish colleen costumes, and the smallest elected officer, Mrs. Becker, was wheeled to the Worthy Matron and Patron in a wheelbarrow pushed by Mrs. Murdock. A replica of the Blarney Stone, which the Worthy Matron and Patron were obliged to kiss before receiving gifts, was carried by Mrs. Becker.

Mrs. Roberson made the presentation speech.

Following the ceremony, members were entertained by soloists from the Menalto music club. Dancing rounded out the evening's program.

Enchanted World

AT P-TA FETE

Tickets for the Hans Christian Anderson fairy tale "The Snow Queen" will be on sale at Willow, Belle Haven and Ravenswood schools Tuesday and Wednesday, March 18 and 19 from 11:30 to 12:30.

The play, given by the Looking-Glass theater players of Monterey under sponsorship of Williow, Ravenswood and Belle Haven P-TA's, will be presented at Ravenswood auditorium Friday, March 21 at 7:30 p. m.

Tradition Supreme In P-TA Renaming

On Wednesday, March 9, an old tradition will return. The "Central" half of Central-Encinal P-TA will become "Menlo Central P-TA."

The original Menlo Central P-TA was one of the oldest parent-teacher groups on the peninsula. The plan to reactivate it was recently voiced by Mrs. G. J. Sirex, 17th District chairman, who explained that the district felt it would be a nice gesture to reestablish the old tradition of Menlo Central, which had been abandoned two years ago when it joined with Encinal.

The Central-Encinal organization split will become effective at the March 19 election meeting when two separate slates of officers—one for each group—will be presented. Voting will be restricted to paid-up members, so it is suggested that participants in the two P-TA's pay their dues now, rather than in fall, when customary collection takes place.

The Wednesday session, to be held at 3 p. m. in the school auditorium, will also take up plans for the May 17 auction, which will help provide funds for a proposed hot-lunch cafeteria.

MP Girl Attends Club Anniversary

The Stars and Bars Officers' club in San Francisco, which counts Marge Thoreson, 940 Wallea drive, among its peninsula members, recently held a first birthday party at its headquarters in the French room of the Palace hotel.

The club was founded to provide a place for officers in all branches of the service to assemble on Sunday afternoons. Hostesses for the weekly "tea-dances" are carefully screened as to appearance gregariousness and behavior.

Heading the organization is Elyse Lawson, formerly from southern California.

PRO-AMERICA ALTERNATE

Mrs. Oliver Dibble Jr. of Woodside has been named alternate delegate to the National Pro-America conference to be held March 19, 20, 21, and 22 at the Mission Inn in Riverside.

'Teen-age Talk

By ROXIE RASEY

DA 2-3201

Saturday, the young people at M-A really enjoyed one of the top notch social events of the year (so far) at the "Pachyderm Prance." About the walls was a huge mural depicting a circus parade. There were clowns, pink elephants, bears (in red and white!), kangaroos, dogs, monkeys, and mules—not to mention all the other aniamls doing their "well known and famous tricks," and those pecking out from behind the bars of their circus cages.

In the center of the room was a streamer carousel which was the center of attraction. Of course balloons and confetti were very prominent as no circus could be complete without this added sparkle. Then there was the traditional pink lemonade and popcorn. More fun!

At intermission there was a floor show. Bea Bowen did one of her terrific acrobatic numbers and a quartet consisting of Dan Varty, Dave Easly, Dave Sexten and Jim Jervis really made a hit with their rendition of "A Sophomore's Philosophy." The band was exceptionally fine as there was not only one band but many ,and some of the vocalists included Perry Como, Bing Crosby, Johnny Ray and the Andrews Sisters. The pieces ranged from "Alexander's Rag Time Band" to "Any Time." Oh well, enough of the past . . . now to the future.

* * * *

Another dance! This time the kids really went to work on that grey matter in the upper regions of the head and came out with the terrific idea of a senior class box social. The girls are to bring their boxes wrapped as "pretty as possible" and containing all the things which little boys like to eat. The boxes will be auctioned off to the highest bidder.

The decorations are tremendi and with the hard work the committee is doing it promises to be a bang-up affair. Even the entertainment sounds pretty nifty. It's a stag affair for all Seniors so if you're one of the 157 twelfth graders you better be there!

* * * *

Tomorrow is the day when the Seniors vote for their Queen who will reign over the Senior Ball. The three girls in the race are all deserving and so we say "good luck to you, girls." The three are Lynn Colebourn, Nancy Sato and Joan Hudson. The Queen will be announced the night of the ball and the other two will automatically become her attendants. Her date will be the "male ruler" for the evening.

* * * *

Ever see girls climb trees at 4:30 in the morning in the rain—in pajamas? At Georgialee Gayer's "slumberless" party last weekend that is precisely what the girls did. Now maybe you understand why we say "slumberless." Or maybe they were sleep walking (they probably were but were pretending to be awake for the sake of not being called "chicken"), but anyway they did it! Among the "small hours of the morning Tarzans" were Connie Stelmach, Audrey Rhoades, Susan Cook, Barbara Long, Beth Rahe, Carolyn Cooper, Georgia Howard, Joan Stoy, Nancy Brooks and Marilyn Wagner.

Relaxing under Hawaiian palm trees and a warm tropical sun are the Marron Kendricks of 398 Walsh Rd., Atherton. Betty left here for her Island destination last week and Marron followed as soon as business permitted.

The welcome mat is out for Mr. and Mrs. Carl L. Hoag, Jr., who have changed their address from 607 West Santa Inez, Hillsborough, to Atherton with their recent purchase of a new home on Almendral Avenue.

* * * *

Another couple to join the ranks of localites are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Barrett who show a preference for the deeper Peninsula instead of San Mateo, and are now ensconced in their new Eichler home on Oak Grove, Menlo Park.

* * * *

Scheduled for March 22 is the dinner party the Sherwood Reeds will give at their attractive home on Felton drive, Menlo Park. Sharing guest of honor places that evening will be Mr. and Mrs. William Little of Palo Alto, who will sail shortly for Honolulu, and Mrs. Kilbourne Breedon of Woodside, who on March 26 will board the Caronia, accompanied by her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Edwin Kilbourne of Saratoga, for a Mediterranean cruise. Dr. Newton Wachhorst of Palo Alto will also be among the Reeds' guests.

Little House Notes:

Trophy Cake To Be Shown

A $25.000 prize-winning cake, entitled "Orange Kiss Me," will be demonstrated by Mrs. Lily Wuebel at the 10 a. m. meeting of Little House's food class today. Mrs. Wuebel was awarded the prize two years ago, when she won the Pillsbury baking contest.

Also on today's program for Little House members is a medley of violin solos at 2:15 p. m. by Mrs. Elizabeth Pierce Kincade, accompanied by Warren Ball at the piano.

* * * *

The crafts class will meet tomorrow at 1:30 p. m. to begin work in metal tooling such objects as copper desk sets, planter boxes and book ends.

At 2:30 p. m. the short story class will gather.

In the evening members will assemble at 7 p. m. for a bridge and canasta party, followed by refreshments.

Saturday Date For Benefit Ball

The crippled children's benefit ball preceded by an 8 o'clock fashion display emceed by commentator Paul Speegle, is scheduled for this Saturday night in the Bay Meadows clubhouse.

According to Michael B. O'Connor, business representative of Hod Carriers' local 97 and general ball chairman, the goal of 10,000 tickets sold has been met. All the labor groups in San Mateo county have banded together to sponsor the affair under the slogan, "Come and dance so that others may walk."

This is the first time in the history of the county, according to fashion show chairman Mrs. Paul Ambort of Menlo Park, that gross proceeds from such an undertaking will be turned over to the beneficiaries.

Belle Haven Exec Board Slates Confab

Executive board of the Belle Haven P-TA will meet today at 1 p. m. in room 5 of the school to discuss plans for the general March 19 election meeting scheduled for 8 p. m. in the school's kindergarten room.

The nominating committee working on the officer slate is composed of Principal James Welsh, Mrs. Warren Pingree, Mrs. Eric Davies, Mrs. William Raithel and Mrs. Edward Gray.

Speaker for next Wednesday's meet will be Dr. Norman Snider from the San Mateo county Dental society, who will discuss "Together We Build Dental Health" in conjunction with the session's theme. To illustrate this talk, a film on children's dentistry will be shown afterward.

Missionary Circles Set for Next Week

Three meetings of circles of the Women's Missionary society of the Menlo Park First Baptist church will be held March 18.

Intra-School Games Set in Saturday League Circuits

Two intra-school tilts will make up half of the program of Menlo Park elementary school basketball league play Saturday, when the loop passes its eighth week of action at Burgess park gym.

At 11 a. m. the Hillview school Dashounds will meet their classmates, the Dogs, and at 12 noon the Central Badgers and Bums will clash.

Other games to be played the same morning include a contest between the Fremont school Comets and Hillview school Champs at 9 a. m. and a contest between the Central school Cougars and Hillview school Chimps at 10 a. m.

In league games played last Saturday, the Fremont Darts downed their schoolmates, the Dominoes, by a score of 13-5; the Central school Daggers edged out the Encinal school Dragons, 14-12, in an overtime game; the Encinal school Crickets defeated the Hillview school Chimps, 16-12 and the Central school Cougars won a forfeiture from the Hillview school Chumps.

At the present time, the Central school All-Stars have cinched their hold on the loop's A division championship, while the Encinal school Bees and Central school Badgers are tied for first place in the B division.

The Central school Cougars appear to have few crucials between themselves and the Cidivision title; in the D division, anybody can still come out on top.

Crafts Classes Start On New Projects

Menlo Park elementary school district pupils who are attending after-school crafts classes have completed preliminary "test projects" and are now starting on individual craft works, Sid Ottman, instructor for the classes, said this week.

The crafts classes have been in operation since the first of the year. The "test projects" consisted of making of leather purses, so that children attending the after-school sessions could learn if they wanted to continue that type of work.

An average of 144 children attend the handcraft sessions each week.

More advanced leatherwork is being undertaken by some school pupils, Ottman, said, while other pupils are to start work in plaster of paris molding.

Classes are held at all four school's of the Menlo Park elementary school district, one day a week.

A total of 82 youngsters are signed up for the sessions at Hillview school, and a committee appointed by the school's P-TA is aiding in supervision of the group.

Plans for Dance Musical Revealed

Preliminary plans for the annual musical show put on by the Menlo Park recreation department-sponsored children's dance classes, to be produced June 6 and 7 at Burgess park gym were revealed this week.

The original play will be titled, "Adam and Eve and Pinchme," Mrs. Marianne Crowder, instructor for the classes, said. It is to include about 17 numbers, for children of from kindergarten to high school age.

The story itself will concern a small girl, who with an invisible playmate named "Boolah" and a "naturalist" as companions, sets off on a tour of the world, visiting not only present-day scenes but such places as "New York in 1910"; Sherwood forest in the days of Robin Hood, and other "story-book" locations.

The famous Awful Fresh MacFarlane's Candy has finally arrived in Menlo Park at The Cake Box. —adv.

MP Man Writes Big League Baseball Yarn

By JACK McCARTHY

With baseball already in the practice stages, sports fans might do wel to read about the inside workings of a big league; to understand the many personalities that go to make up a team, and to realize the every day drama that goes on within the club unseen by the guy in the fifth row behind third base.

Frank O'Rourke, a Menlo Park author who has had several sports novels published, successfully unveils the intense competition of major league play in his recently released novel entitled "Never Come Back."

With authentic supporting characters and exciting baseball play as a background, O'Rourke tells the story of Hub Maloski, a one time baseball great who washed out because he met the wrong kind of woman and literally drank himself out of baseball.

His fame tumbles rapidly down through the many farm clubs and into the lower bush leagues only to have him find courage in himself and understanding from others and to finally win the respect of the big leaguers once again.

It's a sympathetic story in which O'Rourke skillfully creates the tension a ball player feels when he steps to the plate before many thousand cheering fans and the jeers of the opposing team to try and make the hit which will either make or break him.

Fortunately, O'Rourke only touches lightly on the romances of his hero Maloski and avoids the common temptation of trying to blend a story of sweat and leather with that of sweet nothings.

O'Rourke has based "Never Come Back" on a true situation, but few if any of his readers will be able to identify the real person.

The Menlo Park authur lives at 1040 Wallea drive and also has written "Flashing Spikes," "The Team," "Bonus Rookne," and "The Football Gravy Train." The book is published by A. S. Barnes & Company of New York.

MP Families Enter Dogs in Show

Dogs owned by three Menlo Park couples are to be among those which will be judged at the annual championship show to be held March 30 at the San Francisco civic auditorium. The show is to be sponsored by San Francisco dog clubs, Inc.

Those who will have entries in the show include Dr. and Mrs. Lawrence H. Cook, Alameda de las Pulgas; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Pease, 1190 North Lemon avenue and Mr. and Mrs. Philip Bradbury, 117 Hedge road.

Ten bay area dog fanciers' clubs will be represented at the meet.

TOUCH FOOTBALL

Menlo Park elementary school league 6-man touch football playoffs, long delayed by bad weather, basketball, and other factors, were played last week. The Encinal Ants beat the Central All-stars, 10-6, and the Encinal Bees beat the Central Badgers, 12-6.

MAHS Varsity, Frosh-Soph Baseball Nines Look for First Wins in Games Today

Still looking for their first win, members of the Menlo - Atherton high school Varsity baseball nine will meet their counterparts from Fremont high school, Sunnyvale, this afternoon at Flood park.

The frosh-soph baseballers, who also have no place to go but up, meet the Fremont frosh-sophs at the latter's home field today.

Both squads lost their games early this week, as Jupiter Pluvius held off.

On Tuesday, the Bear Varsity lost 3-1 to Mountain View at Flood park though Joe Whitlock, the locals' pitcher struck out 17 of his opponents.

The frosh-sophs, opening against San Mateo the same day, lost by a 3-2 score though the game appeared "sewed up" in the early innings.

Other upcoming games slated by the Varsity nine, include a tilt with Los Gatos diamondmen at the latter's field tomorrow and a return game against Mountain View next Tuesday afternoon.

The frosh-soph squad meets Burlingame at the latter's home field on Tuesday. Both squads started their season late with rains washing out schedules. The M-A squads were to have met Lowell last Friday, but the game was called on account of rain.

As of the first part of this week, Coach Don Dorfmeier's lower classmen were still without a field on which to practice. The Varsity team, coached by Howard Costello, was faring better at Flood park, however.

AWVS Opens Fashion Door At First Friday Showing

AWVS models gave onlookers a glimpse into spring, 1952, last Friday night as they pirouetted across the stage at Rickey's Studio club. The fashion showing was the first of a monthly series scheduled by the Menlo Park, Atherton and Palo Alto women of the auxiliary.

Featured in the parade of styles was this year's full skirt, given almost ante-bellum dimensions Friday night by the use of several stiff petticoats. One particularly striking example of fullness below the waist was a white knife-pleated skirt. worn over stiffening, topped by a sunset-red sweater and vanilla poodle cloth greatcoat.

A new note was the classic slim suit given a bouffant uplift by its apron of pleat-on-pleat. An old friend returned was the princess line, exemplified by a gray walking (or coat) dress contrasted with jet cartwheel buttons and patent leather belt.

A girl's dream formal of pale pink net, with sporadic silver-edged ruffles reaching from hem to knee, was modeled by Joan Benny.

The Friday fashion event was sponsored to raise money for the AWVS Servicemen's center in Menlo Park and the Haven at Veterans' hospital. Another project of the women's organization is the Thrift shop next door to the center.

Fremont Fourth Grade Visits California Rancho; Encinal 2nd Sees Hospital

Members of Miss Gloria Clark's second grade class at Encinal school recently visited Sequoia hospital in Redwood City. Following is the children's account of the trip, as "written up" for the Recorder.—ed.

SEQUOIA HOSPITAL

We went on the bus to visit the Sequoia hospital. It was on a hill. A nurse showed us around. We rode in the elevator. We saw the laundry room. We saw a dumbwaiter. We saw the kitchen. We saw the lab. We saw the dining room. We saw the boiler room. We saw the doctors' library. We saw the lobby. We saw the emergency room. We saw many more interesting things.

Mrs. Uno Ahlenius' fourth grade class at Fremont school recently journeyed to Los Altos, to visit one of the few early ranchos in this area which is still inhabited. Following are sample accounts of the trip:

Today (March 7) we went to the Eaton ranch. Mrs. Eaton met us at the gate. First, we went into the patio. There was a well that the Indians built. It now has goldfish in it. She showed us a bowl 2500 years old. She also has two steel birds. We saw the real El Camino Real. It was much more crooked than the El Camino Real we have now. On our way back from the ranch we saw snow covered mountains, hills, horses, cows, and so many pretty things. It was a lot of fun.

Ann Winnburg

We had a wonderful time today. We went on a bus to a rancho. The lady's name was Mrs. Eaton. She was very nice to us. First, we looked at her porch. On the porch was an old chair made of deer skin.

She took us into the living room and dining room. The walls fothese two rooms were made of adobe. These two rooms were built by the indians who first owned the rancho. The Spanish king gave them this land. We were happy that we were able to see an early California rancho.

Louise Lencioni

My class and I went to Eaton Ranch at Los Altos. It was interesting. The two rooms in the front were of real adobe brick. The ranch house is much bigger now but these two rooms were built by the two indians who were the first owners of this rancho. They were given the land as a land grant from the Spanish government many years ago. When they had the rancho they had 6400 acres. Today Mrs. Eaton has only 52 acres. Los Altos was a part of the Rancho. Boy! It was interesting!

There's a Lot You Can Do to Get The Most from Your Patch of Shade

By TERRY LEE

Big oaks and tall fences have given almost every California gardener a section of shade and the problem of what to grow in it. An Aucuba, with a fern in front, is the standard solution, and quite handsome.

But there is much more to choose from than that, and the colors can be as lovely as the blue forgetmenot with the perennial daisy, Doronicum magnificum, in front of it.

Many shrubs and flowers require deep shade, as the Fatshedera, a very tropical-like, tall shrub, and the fairy Primula, a delicate flower in lavendar or white. Most of our shrubs do fairly well with only a half a day of sun, and others actually require this.

The familiar Camellia likes the morning sun, but burns and drops its buds under full sun. This is true too of the Azalea, Rhododendron, Daphne, and Hydrangea. Light is as important as a small amount of sun, and while these shrubs will not

Husband's Hobby Furnished This Menlo Park Couple's Home

By JOAN HARZFELD

For the past 20 years Herbert Klyce, 300 Yale road, has been turning out beautiful period pieces, such as perfume cabinets, chests and delicate cupboards, not to mention outdoor furniture. It's a hobby—and one that Mrs. Klyce finds quite wonderful.

Dominating the living room is a large panelled hope chest, built by Klyce for his wife before their marriage. A "break-front" cabinet, filled with cups and knick-knacks, oversees the dining room, while in the bedroom is one of the Klyce's favorites, a dainty shelved perfume cupboard.

The terrace is a'so furnished with Klyce-manufactured pieces, hardy outdoor specimens built to

Red Cross to Get Gasoline Profits

All profits from sales of gasoline this Friday at the Village Pump, 901 El Camino Real, will be turned over to the annual fund drive of the Sequoia chapter, American Red Cross, station operator Dick Strandund announced this week.

"During the last war," Strandund said, "I had plenty of opportunity to see the work done by the Red Cross. It deserves our support in its annual drive."

Derry's Feed & Fuel to Move to New Location

Derry's Feed & Fuel store, now located at 1169 El Camino Real, will move to quarters at 630 Oak Grove avenue on or about April 1, it was announced this week by Proprietor Edward J. Derry.

The Oak Grove address is the present site of the company's downtown warehouse.

The store is this week celebrating its 29th anniversary of doing business in Menlo Park. Part of the celebration will include the giving away of 2,500 baby chicks, and a removal sale of merchandise is planned in connection with the event.

Shade Garden . . .

grow under the swooping branches of a large tree, they will thrive in the cool shade that it casts.

FEED AND WATER

In fairness to the things you plant near a tree, be sure the tree is not taking all the moisture and food. It is hard for smaller plants to compete with a tree, so feed and water them generously.

In fairness to your oak, do not let it stand in a puddle of water all summer so the begonias will do well.

If there is good drainage, don't worry.

If not, put your begonias on the patio and plant the yellow flowered Hypericum moseriarium. Ajuga reptans or Vinca minor with its blue flowers, as a ground cover under your oak.

SLOW-GROWING

It seems that shade-loving plants are fairly expensive and then quite slow growing, and it is important to know a few that will fill in rapidly.

Choisya ternata is my favorite for a medium height shrub. It has bright green three-part leaves and pure white, very fragrant flowers. It gets very compact and grows as high as five feet.

Another decorative evergreen is the Oregon grape (Mahonia nevini). It has holly-like leaves, tiny yellow flowers in the spring and clusters of blue berries in the summer. They will stand dry ground, and are fine under oaks.

PERENNIALS, TOO

Since most of the shrubs do grow slowly in shade, it is good to have a few perennials as fillers, which can be removed when the shrubs get larger.

Acanthus mollis is most effective. Its large, classic leaves hide empty spaces and it is handsome and bold enough to add character to a young garden. It is very easy to grow.

Lilies are important in this roll, too, and my favorites are the calla lily and the Agapanthus. Their foliage is important even without their lovely flowers.

Cyclamen, cinerarias, primula, gloxinia and Billbergia will also fill in the spaces between small shrubs or new ground covers.

SHADE SHRUBS

Many familiar shrubs have varieties that do not mind the shade. The large-leafed Viburnum favors the shade, though the rest of the family needs full sun. Pittosporum nigricans makes a fine tall hedge in the shade, as does the California privet, Ligustrum ovalifolium.

Osmanthus fragrans, the "sweet olive," is another tall shrub with very sweet, small flowers. It can be espalliered.

Two other shrubs I would suggest are Raphiolepis indica, a handsome dark green, very precise medium shrub with white flowers and blue berries; and Nandina, a bamboo-like medium shrub. Both grow very slowly, but are very handsome.

Azara microphylla is a smaller shrub than these and grows in wide sprays of tiny dark green leaves. It is very interesting and tolerates dense shade.

No Space Wasted in Compact Plan

Good design can make a small house seem big. This house has three bedrooms and a large living room but only 835 square feet of floor area—well under the minimum size for which materials are controlled. It is Plan No. Y-238 of Architect Herman H. York, 115 New Hyde Park Rd., Garden City, L.I., N.Y.

The architect specifies a roof of asphalt shingles for economical long life and protection from the weather. Asphalt shingles are made in a variety of colors that would blend well with the stonework at the front of the dwelling and the prominent chimney at the side.

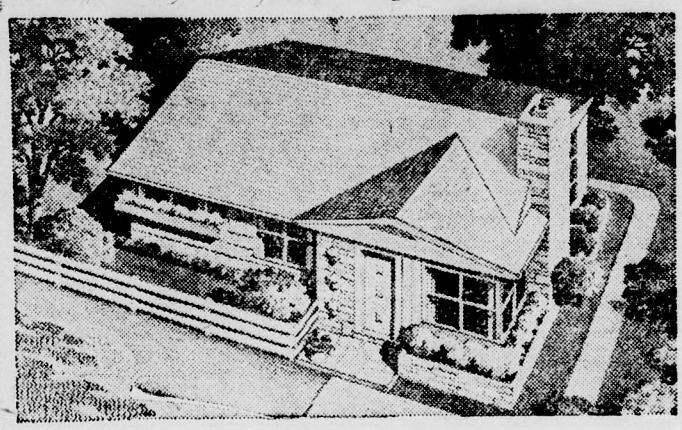

One of the most convenient features of the plan is the novel "semi-split" bath. A heavy folding screen can be pulled out to shut off the lavatory from the rest of the room.

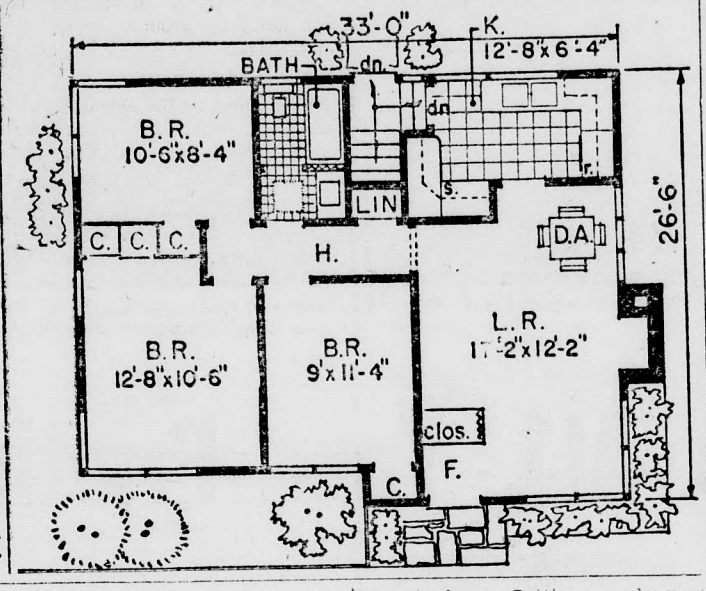

A 6-foot-high living room coat closet acts as a partition to shield the main area of the room from cold air when the front door is opened. This closet is built of hardwood plywood, faced with attractively figured wood veneers that add the fundamental charm of wood to the room's decor.

One wall of the living room also is paneled in hardwood veneer. This gives a permanent, easy-to-clean surface that needs no further decoration.

The hall is big enough to separate the bedroom-bathroom area from the living room-kitchen part of the house but is short enough not to waste space. The house boasts a fireplace which the architect considers to be an indispensable feature for a house of any size.

(Detailed building plans are available from Herman H. York 115 New Hyde Park Rd., Garden City, L.I., N.Y. Refer to Plan No. Y-238.)

Stevens to Open New Drapery Department

Plans for a mezzanine drapery department in the A. S. Stevens dry goods store at 673 Santa Cruz avenue were announced this week by Alfred Weber, store manager.

The department will offer a greatly enlarged stock of ready made and custom made draperies with the new mezzanine floor, now under construction, to be entirely devoted to it. It is expected to be completed and open for business in about four weeks, Weber said.

Manager of the new department is to be Adriaan van Hoften. Van Hoften, who came to this country from Holland four years ago, has 10 years experience in interior decorating. He studied art and decoration for five years in Rotterdam and London and makes a hobby of mural painting.

At present he lives with his wife and their two children in Burlingame.

Shade Garden . . .

Of course your accents can be the lovely azalea or camellia, and just as interetsing is the small "lily of the valley" shrub, Pieris.

I love the amazing "Bleeding-heart" and of course a Fuchsia or two, and at least one Daphne for the real odor of spring.

When these plants are young they can be backed by ferns to fill in the bareness.

Do not use Hydrangeas and Rhododendrons for accents. They should be massed for a full effect, just like violets are lost unless they are in large clumps.

GARDEN CALENDAR
March 13 to 19

My garage is a jumble of tools, patio furniture, and, way back in the corner, the dahlias, tuberous begonias and gladiolus I must do something about.

They all need planting soon, but first an inspection for soft spots, thrips and diseased sections.

Dahlias and glads can be put directly in the ground.

Begonias are much better started in a pot or flat of peat moss, and kept warm and moist until they sprout. The tubers should be set about two inches apart, with the concave side up.

• • • •

Though there is plenty of moisture outside, the dry heat of our houses is hard on the indoor plants. Be sure to give them their weekly watering and wash the dust from their leaves.

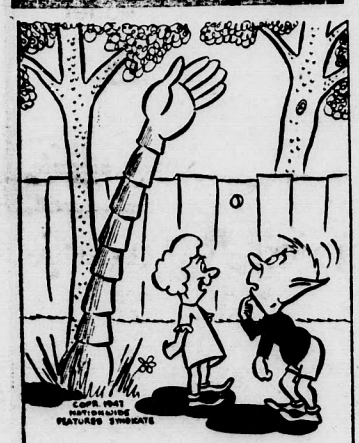

• • • •

Be sure to order the seeds you want while there is still a full selection. If you don't want to raise your own seedlings, tell your nurseryman what you would like to have, and he can start them now.

• • • •

A Pussy Willow (Salix discolor) is a spring treat for any child, and so easy to have. Cuttings made now will root easily in water, can then be planted in any place where it will get moisture. Take cuttings liberally as the shrub will get tall, and quickly.

Hobby . . .

withstand summer sun for several seasons before the necessity for refinishing them arises.

The first step in manufacturing this furniture, according to Klyce, is outlining the project on paper, then having it blueprinted according to specifications.

Once the blueprint is made, the lumber can be purchased. Klyce prefers Philippine hardwood, particularly mahogany, for his work. Final choice is governed by beauty of grain and freedom from pediments.

HOME SHOP

Actual construction of the furniture takes place in a shop built behind the Yale road home. Here, the lumber is first cut to size on a table saw with an adjustable blade which can either "rip" (cut down the length of the grain) or saw across the grain.

Once the planks are sized, they go to another machine—the band saw—which curves into the wood. The curves are shaped on the "shaper," a blade which forms straight moldings as well.

Other moldings on straight pieces (such as table legs) are cut with a blade fitted on over the table saw, while a "shaping cutter" placed on the table saw molds irregular pieces (table edges and picture frames).

When all pieces contributing to the furniture have been sized, shaped and molded, they are ready for assembly. According to Klyce there are many joints used in putting furniture together, one of the commonest being the "dowl."

INTERLOCKS

The "dovetail" joint, one of the most decorative kind, is usually found on drawers, and resembles in appearance and principal the square interlocking teeth of a cog.

Panelling, or more technically "recess panelling" is acquired by sandwiching a thin piece of wood between two larger ieces.

The panel is squared off at both ends, and fits into the same-sized square notches in its neighbor parts. This method of assembly is called "rabbeting" and is invisible on furniture exterior.

Glue is used to keep all projections in their proper notches and holes.

Over half the construction time goes into the final stage of "finishing." The furniture must be sanded within an inch of its life, starting with the grossest quality of sandpaper and working up to the finest grade. Mr. Klyce does this on a machine consisting of two wooden drums over which a sandpaper belt is stretched.

COLOR

Next the wood is stained. For this purpose there are two different types of stain, oil dye and "spirit" dye. The former penetrates wood only to its capacity, leaving soft wood with a dark stain and hard wood with a light one. "Spirit" dye stains all wood the same color.

When the stain has dryed, a paste filler of the same shade is applied to block up the pores of the wood. Hardwood is generally known as "open," since it is quite porous.

A sealer coat is then spread on, followed by eight or more coats of clear lacquer. After every third coat of lacquer, it's time again to sandpaper. Drying time for the lacquer applications runs approximately 24 hours.

For a semi-dull finish, pumistone and water rubbed over the surface will take off excess sheen. Or, if a high gloss is desired, rottenstone and oil may be used.

Klyce prefers a dull finish for his craftwork.

No more than a swish with the dust rag is required of Mrs. Klyce to keep her husband's furniture in good condition. However, if a cleanser is needed, Klyce recommends a 50-50 solution of parafine and benzine.

Give Fish Dinners Tantalizing Taste With Zesty Seasoning

IF FISH DINNERS in your house are not received with wholehearted good spirit and eaten with relish check on your fish cookery. Improvement is simple, the rewards are great.

Fish served frequently can ease the budget and add zest to an otherwise humdrum string of menus. In addition to these reasons, homemakers appreciate the fact that fish is tender and requires but short cooking time. Meal preparation time can be cut considerably when fish appears frequently on the table.

Many fish varieties are available because they come fresh, canned and fresh-frozen. When you investigate the cookery methods as well as the many seasonings that can enhance their flavors, you enter a fascinating realm of cookery.

You've stuffed chops and roasts Have you ever thought of stuffing a fish? Here's an excellent way to prepare fish with stuffing that's quick to make and wonderfully popular:

Baked Stuffed Fish
(Serves 6)

Select a fish weighing 3 to 4 pounds. Clean and rub salt inside and out. Fill cavity ⅔ full with mushroom stuffing. Lace fish with string to hold stuffing in place and to hold fish together. Brush fish with melted butter or substitute and place upright in a greased baking pan. Place paper brushed with butter over fish. Pour ½ to ¾ cup water or fish stock into pan. Bake in a moderate (350°F.) oven for 40 to 60 minutes or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Baste frequently with drippings in pan. Remove string and serve immediately on a hot platter with liquid from pan, thickened with a mixture of 1 tablespoon butter and 1 teaspoon flour.

Mushroom Stuffing

3 tablespoons butter
1 tablespoon onion, chopped
½ cup chopped mushrooms
2 cups fresh bread crumbs
½ cup cream
2 eggs, beaten
1 teaspoon chopped parsley
Salt and pepper

Melt butter in saucepan. Add onion and saute until onion is golden. Add chopped mushrooms and cook until water from mushrooms cooks away. Add bread crumbs, cream, eggs and parsley. Stir until well mixed. Cook over low heat until mixture is thickened. Season to taste with salt and pepper.

Broiling is an excellent method for cooking fish because it's so tender. Here are two ways to try:

Broiled Mackerel, Onion Slices
(Serves 4)

4 1-pound mackerel or other small fish
3 onions, sliced
2 tablespoons butter

Rub inside of fish with salt. Make several slits on each side of the fish. Slip a slice of onion and a dot of butter in each slit on the top side, pushing the slice of onion well into the slit.

Place fish under broiler, about 6 inches from the source of heat. Broil for 3 minutes, turn fish and insert

Small, whole fish like this mackerel, can be treated by cutting slits in the fish and inserting onion slices. The broiling method prepares the fish quickly and gives interesting variety to fish dinners.

WOMAN'S WORLD

Planned Work Schedule Helps Avoid Spring Cleaning Woes

By ERTTA HALEY

THESE seasonal housecleanings scare most families, and it's no wonder! The whole house is in a great upheaval from attic to cellar, and mother's so tired!

The cleaning doesn't have to be done in a day or two, or even a week, especially if you have a large home. Why not parcel it out among several weeks and thus save yourself and the family their loss of comfort?

If you have two regular cleaning days every week, you can plan to do some of the extra jobs on those days which you would ordinarily save for the seasonal cleaning.

Now, when you have one or two days for laundry: plan to wash some curtains, draperies and slip-covers along with the regular laundry. This is far easier on you than doing all these big items at one time.

If you plan to do one or two rooms at one time, this is far better than uprooting every room in the house for two or three days. With your energies as well as work budgeted over a period of time, you'll feel much better, and will thus accomplish better results.

Are there a lot of things to be put away for the warm months ahead? Gather your boxes, paper and labels ahead of time, and then pack things away as they become clean from your laundry or cleaner.

Days on which you ordinarily have only light work can be made a bit heavier with some of the special seasonal jobs like a thorough washing of the woodwork as well as windows, rugs and draperies.

If you're not yet ready to plunge into the actual work, at least get your equipment in order, along with assembling cleaning materials.

Let Cleanliness Enhance Your Curtained Windows

Clean, sparkling windows and immaculate curtains can certainly be a treat to your eyes when you first start looking out at the season coming into buds and greenery.

A few minutes washing in the machine is sufficient to clean most of your curtains. Most of them need a lukewarm pre-rinse to remove most of the soot and dust and then be whisked into the machine. For glass or ruffled cotton curtains give them two minutes time, then rinse thoroughly.

Light starching will make them crisp as new. Permanent finish curtains, of course, do not need starching. Hang to dry, or use a curtain stretcher to assure straight edges.

If any of your curtains are chintz, and you want the colors to be truly delightful and fresh, wash as often as they become soiled. If the chintz has a permanent glaze the shiny surface sheds dirt well, and the curtains do not need as frequent laundering.

Durable finish is unhurt by washing, but it should never be soaked. Lukewarm water and mild suds are indicated, and three to four minutes in the machine are sufficient. Rinse thoroughly and dry in the shade. Iron the glazed side while slightly damp with a moderate iron.

On sheer curtains you may have to allow for a two or three inch shrinkage during washing if they're not pre-shrunk. You may prefer to have them cleaned if you cannot have the shrinkage.

Nylon lace curtains wash easily and dry quickly. They usually need only slight pressing at the hems.

Many Draperies Wash

Use common sense in washing draperies, if you want satisfying results. Unless they are color-fast and pre-shrunk, draperies probably should not be washed as you may lose the whole investment in them.

Lined draperies are usually too much of a job to attempt at home unless the linings can be easily removed and replaced.

Overloading the washing machine when you're doing drapes may prevent them from becoming cleaned thoroughly. It's foolish to overload too many in, as five minutes in medium warm water is sufficient for most drapes. Thorough rinsing is in order. Before putting through the wringer, fold the draperies flat, to prevent unnecessary wrinkling.

Drying draperies in a shady place will prevent undue loss of color. If you have an ironer, you'll find this excellent for pressing them artistically.

Heavy and lined draperies which are not due for cleaning can be easily handled by using a vacuum cleaner attachment on the drapes, just as they hang. If you go over them thoroughly with the attachment, not just seasonally, the drapes can be kept quite nicely, thus saving many trips to the cleaners.

Partitions Can Add Interest to Rooms

Separate rooms for every activity in the home are becoming obsolete. Now we have dining areas combined with living room or kitchen. The bedroom is a hobby room as well as a place for rest. The den or music center or library is often worked into a section of the living room.

Whether you build, remodel or just redecorate, bear some of these functions of the rooms in mind. Perhaps you can add charm as well as more livability to the home with simple partitioning.

Screens are one of the simplest methods used, but they need not be dull and colorless. Why not cover the screen with maps or pictures from some of your vacation trips? They're conversation stimulating, as well as an addition to the personality of the home.

Screens can be covered with menus you've collected. What could be more appropriate for a screen used to enclose a dining area?

Another type of partition which is very useful is a chest that can easily be made by simple carpentry work. Use this to separate the kitchen from the dinette nook. It's much less expensive than a wall, and you'll get table top space to help in serving the meal, as well as the chest-shelf itself to help store dishes and table accessories.

Chests used as partitions can be used to separate living and dining area, and it may even be used to section off the living room for library or music activities.

Let Rooms Change With Living Demands

All changes, minor or major, should be made with an eye to future use and activity. It's unwise to buy any piece of furniture that cannot be used at a future date.

Brush Up Crumbs

Dining room rugs require constant attention to keep them attractive. Plan to use your carpet sweeper on the rug immediately after the meal to remove any crumbs before they get ground into the rug fibers. This rug design is borrowed from that of an ancient stone carver and comes in beige, grey and two shades of green.

onions and dots of butter on the other side. Broil 6 minutes longer, or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork.

Broiled Fish Steaks

Either fresh or frozen steaks may be used for this. With frozen steaks, let fish thaw on refrigerator shelf or at room temperature, just long enough to separate the steaks. Dip steaks in flour, season both sides with salt and pepper and brush both sides with salad oil. Place on a pre-heated, greased broiler pan about two or 3 inches from heat. Broil 5 to 8 minutes, turn carefully and broil 5 to 8 minutes longer or until fish flakes easily when tested with fork. If fish is very frozen, a slightly longer time for broiling may be required. Remove steaks to hot platter and serve with the following:

Mustard Sauce

- 1 tablespoon butter
- 1 tablespoon flour
- 1 cup hot milk
- 1 slice onion
- Salt and pepper
- 1 teaspoon prepared mustard
- Few drops lemon juice

Melt butter, add flour and cook until it turns golden. Add milk, onion, salt and pepper and cook, stirring constantly until mixture thickens, then continue cooking until reduced to about two-thirds of the original quantity. Add mustard and lemon juice. Strain sauce or just remove onion, and serve.

• • •

An easy way to serve fish that may be different to you, is by baking a nicely seasoned fish mixture in a ring mold:

Flaked Fish Ring

(Serves 6)

- 2 pounds cooked fish fillets
- 2 eggs
- ½ cup tomato juice
- 1½ cups soft bread crumbs
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon pepper
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- ¼ cup parsley, minced
- 2 tablespoons chopped celery

Flake fish. Mix in remaining ingredients. Place mixture in buttered ring mold and bake in a hot (400°F.) oven for 30 minutes. Run a knife around the edges and turn out on platter. Fill center with sliced, cooked carrots. Garnish with chicory or other greens.
